Visual Design for Qizhi Access Gateway

In November 2016, I participated in the product design for Qizhi access gateway. As a visual designer, the design challenge was to present an appropriate interface which could promote the work efficiency and meanwhile strengthen the branding. The following shows the icon design and some of the user interface design I delivered.

My college is located in Shenzhen, which is a flourishing and appealing coastal city in southern China. Those college years in this city turned out to be the most dynamic and remarkable years of my life. These illustrations were created to the memory of all of my beloved friends and memorable moments.
